

Fetching Changes/Rebasing

While the implementation was in progress, modifications or updates may have been made and pushed to the Team Repository. Hence, it is important to fetch the latest state of the Remote Repository and rebase our changes on top of it.

Fetch the changes using the desired Version Control System. The screenshot provided below serves as a visual representation, illustrating an example of the fetching process performed using the Git Extension.

